Dear Bob:

It was good meeting you last week. Enclosed is the package on Admiral Turner which I promised. In addition to the standard biographical information, I have included some articles and columns written by the Admiral along with a list of speeches, appearances and media contacts he has had since coming to the Central Intelligence Agency in March 1977.

The tapes are two very different speeches. The one at the San Francisco Press Club was given before a large audience followed by a question and answer period. I think it is typical of this type of speech which he gives so well. The other is a talk followed by a question and answer period which the Admiral gave before about 400 members of various college alumni groups in our auditorium here at Headquarters. I include this one because it was given in the evening after a very long day for the Admiral who was then preparing to brief President-elect Reagan the next morning, i.e., I think it illustrates how he is able to get himself up for presentations of this type and do a splendid job under quite adverse circumstances.

Let me hear from you so we can get you and Admiral Turner together at an early date.

Sincerely,

Herbert E. Hetu
Director of Public Affairs
